Summer Story Hour

Draws to a Close

20 Aug 1984

The summer story hour has drawn to a close. What a delightful time it has been. There were about 90 children from the county which participated in the activities. A reading program was offered to those children in the age group from 6 to 8 years old. If 50 books were read containing 50 pages each the child would receive a certificate of recognition for their accomplishment. If 100 books were read they received a t-shirt with the numerals 100 printed on them. There were quite a number of children striving for this goal - five have already accomplished it. They are Angie Price, daughter of Jay and Becky Price, Marci Price, daughter of John and Brenda Price, Melissa Baum, daughter of Dick and Elva Baum, Lindsay Allred, daughter of Doug and Karey Allred, Natalie MacDonald, daughter of Robert and Debbie MacDonald.

Those who have completed 50 books and are still working toward 100 are Diane Kinsay, daughter of Allen and Myrna Kinsay and Harmony Loertscher, daughter of Scott and Annie Loertscher. They will be able to receive their shirts as soon as they complete the 100 books.

At the closing story hour a decorated cake was presented to Angie Price, for reading the greatest amount of books this summer. She read a grand total of 154 books. Congratulations Angie!!

This has been a very worthwhile experience for the leaders as well as the children. We hope that the children have gained an interest and desire to read and learn. We want to thank all who have helped to make this the success that it was.
